A Terrible Crime

JACKSONVILLE, Ind August 30—A terrible outrage resulting in the death of the victim was committed near Harryville last night. Austin Gar... while walking along the railroad track was assaulted by three men who robbed him of five dollars, then bound him across the track and left him. He succeeded in freeing his body from the ropes, but before he could get his legs loose a train came along and though he managed to throw his body off the track his left leg was cut off. He lay beside the track all night. He was picked up by a train and brought here but died soon after.

Another Suicide in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 31—The following are the particulars of the suicide of C D Anderson this morning, as far as can be ascertained at present. He was found dead on his bed in a room in the rear of his store. He held a new revolver in his hand and a wound in his right eye showed where the ball entered. Letters were found in the room written with a pencil and addressed to Miss Mary Brady. They are dated Saturday last and yesterday. He accuses her of deception in not keeping her promise to marry him and directs her to seek for his body at the Morgue if she wishes to look upon him again. Deceased was about 45 years of age and has two sons inmates of the boys' school at San Rafael. It is supposed that the fatal deed was committed about 7½ o'clock this morning as he was seen upon the streets between 6 and 7 o'clock.

SAN BERNARDINO August 31—Two men who attempted to rob the stage on Saturday night were caught yesterday evening by Deputy Sheriffs Yager and Mayfield and citizen Landers, in Cajon Pass and taken to the house of a man named Vincent. About 1 o'clock this morning, one of them made a desperate attempt to escape while Officers Yager and Mayfield were sleeping. Landers was guarding the robbers when one seized his pistol lying on a table near Yager, and told the guard to stand and not speak or he would shoot. Landers tried to catch the pistol and the robber shot at him. This awakened Yager, but as he rose the robber knocked him down with the pistol and shot him in the thigh. Yager rose again, caught hold of the robber and in the struggle Mayfield came to his assistance and the robber was conquered by force. He would not surrender. The other robber made no resistance. They were brought to town and lodged in jail.

THE WALLOWA VALLEY.

On the 8th of July Senator Kelly addressed the following letter which explains itself to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

WASHINGTON July 8 1874

Sir: Two or three months ago in a conversation with you in relation to the propriety of setting off the Wallowa valley in North Eastern Oregon as a reservation for a small portion of the Nez Perce Indians, you stated that under the circumstances you deemed it unsuitable for that purpose that it would be relinquished as such, and Congress would not be asked to make an appropriation to pay the sums awarded for their improvements to the persons who had settled in that valley before the reservation was made.

The facts I communicated to the settlers of that valley.

Upon applying at the proper Land Office to prove settlement and cultivation so as to obtain titles to their land, they were informed that no official evidence had been received of the relinquishment of the Indian reservation and consequently no action could be taken in the Land Office with reference to those lands. Therefore in behalf of the people of that valley respectfully ask you that you will advise the President that the same is not necessary or suitable for an Indian reservation and that it be relinquished as such. And in case the President shall cancel his order of June 16 1873 so reserving the same you will cause the General Commissioner of the Land Office to be notified of that fact to the end that the settlers in Wallowa Valley may be enabled to perfect the titles to their several tracts of land which they claim under the pre-emption and homestead law.

Very respectfully your obedient servant

JAMES K. KELLY

THE GIFT OF THE ISRAELITES TO THE UNITED STATES—Mr Ezekiel the Cincinnati sculptor who has been commissioned by the Israelites of America to design a statue to be unveiled at the Centennial exercises at Philadelphia in 1876 has completed his model. It has for a central figure a Goddess of Liberty of heroic size. By her side is an ideal figure of a boy holding aloft the eternal fire and typifying the universal belief in a higher power. On the other side is an American eagle dropping the killed serpent Intolerance over the edge of a precipice. The group will be executed in Rome out of one solid marble block, and will be double life size. The base will be 12 feet in height and will be inscribed with the date 1876 with the clause from the Constitution providing for religious liberty and perhaps the sentence From the Israelites of the United States to the General Government. It will first be unveiled in Fairmount Park during the Centennial celebration and afterward removed to Washington where it will be permanently placed.—Cincinnati Gazette

A poor Irish woman applied to a lady of our acquaintance for a flower or two to put in the hand of her dead infant and when a hand some bouquet was handed her she offered to pay for it which of course was declined when with a look full of gratitude she exclaimed May the Lord Jesus meet you at the gate of Heaven with a crown of roses. Nothing could be more touchingly beautiful as well as poetical.—Boston Journal

WHO SHALL BE DELEGATE?

WASHINGTON TERRITORY POLITICS—THE MANAGERS AT WORK—FIXING THE PRIMARIES—THE FLOCK OF FORMER DELEGATES—POSSIBLE CANDIDATES AND THEIR CLAIMS—SHALL O B MCFADDEN BE RETURNED?—THE WALLA WALLA DEMOCRACY SAY NO—A BALLET OF READABLE POLITICAL GOSSIP

[FROM A WASHINGTON TERRITORY CORRESPONDENT]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Having a word or two to say in political matters in this Territory apropos of the election which takes place in November I will, with your permission give expression to my views through the unrivalled columns of your widely circulated journal.

As the day of election draws nigh

THE POLITICAL DRUMMER

Representatives of the rival political houses of the Territory like their prototypes of the commercial world at this season of the year are actively flitting about in the interest of their respective employers. The old game of "fixing for the primaries" is going forward in the old fashioned time honored manner and the prospect for stifling any true expression of the popular voice at the ballot box is all that any corruptionist could ask. It is said that experience is a dear school but that fools will learn in no other. The people of this Territory have been regular attendants at this school for a term quite sufficient for the graduation of the most obtuse, yet, from the pliancy with which they are still molded to the will of demagogues it would seem that the price of their tuition has been thrown away.

Is it not time to shake off the leeches who have sucked the life blood of the Territory for so many years? Is our Territory to form the only exception to the universal cry for reform? I am loth to believe it. The long suffering masses must yet shake off the stupor into which they have fallen and by one mighty effort at the polls demonstrate the possession of true manhood and independence.

We have weighed both parties in the balance and found them wanting. The time of our Delegates which belongs to the people has been spent in soliciting favors for their political wirepullers at home while

THE VITAL INTERESTS OF THE TERRITORY HAVE BEEN NEGLECTED

Our settlers have had their lands which they settled upon and paid for in the best of faith, wrested from them upon the pretense of a technical compliance with the terms of a railroad grant while our delegate has failed to obtain redress for the wrong either by compensation for improvements or restitution of the money paid into the land offices. We do not believe the Government of the United States would suffer its citizens to be so defrauded in its name were the facts presented as they should be presented before the proper department.

Judge McFadden, our present delegate has done all he could consistent with his obligations to the corporations to whose influence he was indebted for his election. We want

SOMETHING MORE THAN A CORPORATION ATTORNEY

To represent our interests. We want a man who can stand up and say a word now and then for the people regardless of the corporate interests with which it may clash. It has been said that a former delegate undertook to turn an honest penny while at Washington ostensibly representing the interests of the Territory by lobbying through a certain railroad land grant. There being two companies asking for the subsidy it is averred that he is become a "fair minded" man accepted a retainer from each and that, unfortunately for the Company who had first its interests were subordinated to those of the latter and higher bidder. Though we do not hanker after this style of man we really believe that through the middle course he was forced to pursue to avert suspicion from his treachery the interests of the people suffered less than they would had he been owned body and breeches by either of the two corporations. We will leave the reader to draw his own moral from this story.

In casting about for a candidate we are warned by experience to look well to the early history of all aspirants.

NEXT TO A BRIBE TAKER

In the scale of villainy ranks the moral leper, who instead of seeking oblivion and by penitent tears atoning for early indiscretion must needs mount the political ladder and rule over honest men. We would charitably let such alone provided they keep in the background but it is the duty of every good citizen to expose all such who have the audacity to come to the front.

The movement for a so-called Independent Nominating Convention east of the Cascades is in my opinion, a mere blind work up by political hacks to prevent any genuine movement for reform. The Walla Walla Democracy are dead set against McFadden's renomination. Nominated or not they have the power to defeat him at the polls and from present indications they will not be slow to exercise it.

I S Kearney, our U S Marshal fills his present position so much to the satisfaction of the people that they will hardly ask him to relinquish it to accept the delegateship. Besides, as he has recently been reappointed to his snug billet he is too close a calculator to take any such desperate chances as the acceptance of a nomination would involve.

Judge Jacobs would have run well two years ago. He let his opportunity slip and would make but a sorry race now. His reappointment to the Supreme Judgeship for an additional term of four years brings him some substantial consolation for his waning popularity.

Gov E P Ferry is not, as many suppose an aspirant for the delegateship. His present position suits him and everybody seems to be willing that he should retain it.

The most available man the Republicans have is Samuel C Wingard present U S Attorney. He is middle aged a good lawyer a more than passable scholar a man of moderate political views and a thorough going gentleman. Though not an aspirant he doubtless could be prevailed upon to accept the nomination if tendered to him. He don't rank among the pioneers of the Territory but the fact that of a good men settled in the Territory subsequent to 1856 cannot be longer disputed.

In my next I shall touch upon the claims to and qualifications for minor offices by certain local aspirants. In the meantime should any one enquire who wrote this please say

A HOT SHOT FOR MRS HOOKER—Brooklyn August 24—The Argus publishes an interview with Tilton to-day in which he says that when Mrs Hooker wrote her letter and made demonstrations against Beecher he (Tilton) visited her by request and tried to pacify her. She said I am here to charge Henry Ward Beecher with adultery with Mrs Theodore Tilton. Tilton then replied Madame I had anticipated as much. I am here to charge you with adultery with Mr Nevins of Washington. Mrs Hooker was stunned and said not a word. She afterward admitted that Victoria Woodhull had told her about Beecher's guilt. Tilton then told her he had his information from the same source. She cried for several minutes and finally concluded that it would not do for her to enter Plymouth pulpit and denounce Beecher.

Heard about Pete and Jake? inquired one boy of another as they met near the City Hall yesterday. No what's ter pay was the reply. Wall I'll tell yer, but the police mustn't git to hear a word. Jake he called Pete a flop and Pete he called Jake a caterpillar and they shook hands and agreed to have it out next Monday. Jake is eating eggs and raw beef and Pete is down to the slaughter houses smelling blood and I tell you there'll be the most awfulest time Monday you ever heard of.

ALL ABOUT COOS BAY

THE ROAD OVER THERE AND THE COUNTRY ABOUT THE BAY

[FROM OUR TRAVELING CORRESPONDENT]

EMPIRE CITY, COOS BAY Aug 27 1874

The country between Roseburg and Coos Bay by the stage road is one of great interest. For fifteen miles after leaving Roseburg, there are several small valleys and bottom lands that are finely cultivated and productive. The ascent to the summit of Sugar Loaf mountain is considerable and the view from it is extensive and grand. The great cañon on the descent of the mountain is deep and precipitous lined with bodies of rough rocks and a dense forest of splendid timber on each side. Brewster Valley intervenes between the cañon and the ascent of the Coast range. This valley contains a number of small settlements where the occupants are making gradual inroads on the timbered lands and building up comfortable homes. The settlers are generally intelligent and industrious. Have plenty of hard work followed by a remarkable amount of success and home comforts. The summit of the Coast range is at least 1,700 feet high, the grades are pretty good but the headlands are so high and the timber so dense that there is no view of the surrounding country from the road until Coos Bay is reached. The distance from Roseburg to the bay at the nearest point, what is called Coos City is 62 miles; this is the terminus of Mr Coston's stage to Bay City the beginning of a new village opposite Marshfield the terminus of J D Smith's stage is 65 miles. The former stage makes the distance in nineteen hours travel and the latter in twenty three not including stoppages. The majority of the road is pretty good but in some places the ruts are so deep that the stage has to take the brush to get through, and this in the face of a large land grant and having an expensive turnpike. If the whole of the road was kept in good order and the stages well horsed the distance could be made in twelve hours the travel much increased and the trade between Roseburg Southern Oregon and Coos Bay much extended.

The old rule of holding lots and blocks at high rates has killed Coos City as a town for the present, and opened the way for commencing the village of Bay City opposite Marshfield. Its success will depend in a great measure on avoiding the policy that ruined the prospects of Coos City. This is not the time for charging comparatively high rates for lots in the bush with a scattered population. Five miles east of Coos Bay at the head of Kitchen Slough a little town called

SUMNER

Is growing up to considerable proportions but is in the infant growth. The leaders in this enterprise are Mr H H Luse of Empire City and Mr Crane of Roseburg—both enterprising men. The slough is being widened and deepened to the village so that a small steamer can run to and from the bay at high tide. The slough will be available for all kinds of freight save time and expense and encourage the trade to and from Roseburg, and Southern Oregon.

COOS BAY

Is making marked progress in shipping, ship building, the lumber business, coal mining improvements and settlements. There are now 12 schooners 4 barges and 2 steamers running from the bay to San Francisco all the time. The two former can carry an average cargo of 150 tons each and make the round trip once a month, the steamers make the round trip once a week and are registered for 750 tons each. The principal trade is lumber and coal for the San Francisco market and assorted cargoes of supplies for the trade of the bay and the Coquille river. There were 34 arrivals and departures in March, 43 in April, 50 in May, 28 in June and the same in July. There are two comfortable steamboats running daily on the bay and tributary rivers and a third one is being built; there is one tow-boat for towing logs and scows, and two first class tow boats for bringing in and taking out vessels over the bar. The rapidly-extending coal mines on Coos Bay and tributaries will soon call into existence an extensive fleet of additional steamers to meet the wants of the trade. Messrs Simpson & Bro at North Bend are the pioneer ship builders and lumbermen of this bay; they are now building the 16th vessel and the largest ever constructed here. Messrs I B Dean & Co of Marshfield contemplate building next spring. There have been five vessels built in their yard and the schooner Forthoff was launched from their ways a few days since; she sailed for San Francisco on Friday and is considered a beautiful model. Mr H H Luse of Empire is one of the enterprising steamboat men of the bay. He is building a small steamer for the passenger trade that is considered the finest [illegible] of the kind ever seen on Coos Bay. She was designed in its being constructed by Mr John Howlett one of the most competent ship builders on this coast. There is no doubt in the minds of competent judges that ship building will form one of the great features of Coos Bay in the future as sure as it has proved successful in the past. The two steamers already run to and from San Francisco have been of great advantage in encouraging

EMIGRATION

To the Bay and settling up the Coquille valley and its numerous forks. These steamers frequently bring as many as fifty immigrants each and the average would make 25 every trip.

The immense coal beds and the new mines opening all the time, the large sawmills and inexhaustible forests of choice timber, the Coquille valley, the numbers of small openings for settlers and the rich soil available for clearing, with hard work will continue to attract a large immigration and ultimately a dense population. The county has more than doubled its population during the last three years and will probably be in a few years the richest county in natural resources in the State, outside of Multnomah.

PENNSYLVANIA'S CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

From the N Y Tribune's report of the Pennsylvania Republican Convention we take the following plank in the platform and comments:

Fourteenth—That entertaining the fullest confidence in the high personal integrity ability and statesmanship of Gov John F Hartranft we unhesitatingly present him to our Republican friends throughout the Union as a candidate for nomination to the Presidency in 1876. His blameless and exalted character as a man his extraordinary ability as an administrative officer the purity of his public life and his splendid record as a soldier all commend him to an enthusiastic and hearty support for a position which he is so well qualified to adorn.

The Hartranft resolution was intended as a square blow at the third term movement. To leave no doubt of its meaning ex Congressman O J Dickey made a dashing little speech in which he assumed that it was a slander on Grant to pretend that he desired another term. If it were true that he did, it was time for the Republican party to say that they would stand by the precedent of Washington which had become the common law of all parties. State Senator Cooper declared that any man who thought that Grant or an angel from heaven could run for a third term was a fool. Ex Congressman Kountz said he was glad to know that Mr Dickey was authorized to speak for the President on the subject, to which Mr Dickey replied that he was not but that he had faith in Grant's sanity. Kountz then deprecated any expression of opinion on the question and moved to strike out the recommendation of Hartranft for the Presidency in the resolution referring to him. Only about a dozen members voted yea. The resolutions were then adopted and the Convention adjourned when it was so dark that they could sit no longer.

OREGON.

Mr B F Myer of Ashland fell in a fit last Friday and striking on his face received some severe injuries. He is recovering.

A gentleman just in from Washington county says a very large proportion of the wheat crop is yet to thresh and that comparatively the amount ready for market is small. In another week there will be much in the sack as threshing is lively now where the wheat is dry enough.

Three distinguished gentlemen were guests at the Ashland House one night last week. Gen Van Vleet Inspector of Indian Agencies on his way we understand to Fort Klamath on a tour of inspection, Gen Wheaton and family on their way to Walla Walla, and Bishop Merrill, who had been attending Conference in Portland.

E L Dowell writing from Washington City under date of August 7th says: "The Oregon war debt are in very bad repute. The Treasury has paid in the 1854 claims $68,305. About $20,000 of this is fictitious and was manufactured since the passage of the act. Nothing will be paid on the 1855-6 war claims until the next deficiency bill passes Congress next winter.

A young man by the name of Herril, from Benton county one of James Miller's employes having the fear of Indians at his heart, while encamped at Cold Springs, Jackson county was frightened into the belief that they were attacked by Indians and to play the joke on the timid young man they rushed out in the woods and soon returned to camp except Herril and though search was made during the night and next day he could not be found.

HEAVY SUIT AGAINST THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY

A couple of suits were commenced Tuesday by Mrs Euretta L Davenport as guardian of her two minor children against the Western Union Telegraph Company to compel the Company to replace upon its stock books, to their credit 782 shares of telegraph stock of the par value of $78,000 belonging to her two children and alleged to have been fraudulently transferred by the Company to some person unknown to her. The minors obtained their stock by the will of their father Charles Davenport. The certificate of stock was in the custody of their mother and placed with other papers of their mother's in a tin box. She intrusted the key to Robert W Ritchey her brother but did not authorize him, or any one else to dispose of the stock. Since that time, however neither Mrs Davenport nor her children have seen anything of the stock. The plaintiff believe and so charge that the transfer of the stock was made in pursuance of a pretended power of attorney authorizing such transfer in the name of the plaintiffs, who aver that they never executed the power or authorized its execution and who charge if such power was exhibited that it was false fraudulent and forged. Besides a replacement of its stock the plaintiffs seek to recover all dividends declared on the stock since 1871, amounting to several thousand dollars.

It will be remembered that about two years ago considerable of a scandal was stirred up in reference to this stock. It was said that Ritchey had been dealing largely in stocks and that he was a heavy loser by transactions in Northwestern common. The matter has been kept quiet since, although it came near being legally inquired into in a suit between Heyes & Co and Ritchey, growing out of the transfer of Northwest, but was however finally tided over. Now that the muddle is to be judicially investigated, we may look for some rich developments.—Cincinnati Gazette August 19th

GENERAL CUSTER FINDS A PARADISE IN THE BLACK HILLS

NEW YORK August 23—A special to the World from Bear Buttes, Dakotah, gives the text of General Custer's official report of the Black Hills survey. He describes the topography of the region at some length. When near Bear Buttes the expedition was stopped by a range of high impassable hills, through which they attempted to effect a passage but in every instance were led into deep, broken canyons impassable even to horsemen. They followed Elk creek, and discovered a gap in the northern boundary through which the expedition passed. They then camped for the first time in the Black Hills region, in delightful pine forests with grass and foliage as green as in May. The interior was like a beautiful park and contained thousands of acres of pasturage. Behind them were the plains before them a dry and arid waste. They then marched to Bear Buttes. The health of the expedition was excellent, and they expect to reach Fort Lincoln by the 31st of August. They had explored the major portion of the interior of the Black Hills. No portion of the United States can offer richer pasturage purer water more delightful temperature to farmers or stock raisers. Building stone fuel and lumber are inexhaustible and rains frequent. Grain would yield abundantly especially wheat. Gold iron and plumbago have been found, as also inexhaustible beds of gypsum. In the large water courses every panful of earth brings some gold in paying quantities. Deer, elk and bear are plentiful. The expedition had no trouble with Indians.

THE POPE RELENTS WITH EX KING AMADEUS—The Duke and Duchess d'Aosta (the ex King and ex Queen of Spain) are living at Moncalieri very quietly. This is a chateau near Turin in the village of that name, which village was the Testona of ancient times. [illegible] [illegible] wife of Amadeus of Savoy built the chateau. Victor Emmanuel First who abdicated in 1821 was very fond of the old castle of Tolande. He rebuilt it and died there in 1825. It used to be the favorite summer residence of the Turinese court. The Duchess you remember is a niece of Monsignor de Merode. Her health, which has been very bad is better though still delicate. Her husband, Prince Amadeus never leaves her. His devoted care has contributed as much as medicine to her recovery. She is a very devout Catholic. It is whispered that Prince Amadeus who inherits devoteeism from his family has become very religious. An ancestor Charles Emmanuel IV who abdicated in 1802 became a Jesuit. His tomb is in the beautiful church of Bernini St Andrea al Quirinale on Monte Cavallo. Prince Amadeus mother and grandmother were saints. There is a report and I have it from pretty good authority that Prince Amadeus has also written a letter to the Pope. In it he begs the Holy Father to lift the excommunication off from his family and himself and expresses sentiments of the most affectionate obedience to the Pope in the name of his wife and self. The Pope has replied in an affectionate and fatherly letter removed the excommunication and given the apostolic benediction to the Duke, Duchess and their little family.—Rome Cor Philadelphia Bulletin

GRANT INTERVIEWED—A New York Herald commissioner was sent to interview the President the other day. Here is the result:

Correspondent—President Grant I wish to ask you if you are a candidate for a third term?

The President (coldly)—I have nothing to say on the subject.

Correspondent—But President Grant may I ask whether your friends intend to place your name before the next Republican Convention?

The President (freezing)—I have nothing to say on the subject.

Correspondent—Well, is there any truth, Mr President in the rumored alliance?

The President (frozen)—I have nothing to say on the subject.

Correspondent—If that is the case Mr President I will wish you good morning.

The President (an iceberg)—I have nothing to say on the subject.

So the correspondent left fully impressed with the fact that President Grant is a hard man to interview.

THE TERRITORIES

John F Hicklin of Olympia, has received a patent on a grain separator invented by him.

Some of the maple trees in Olympia have grown in eighteen years to be five feet in circumference.

Some Olympians who went on an excursion to McAllister Lake pronounce it a splendid place to go to.

The Salt Lake Tribune says the Scandinavian element of the Mormon Church embracing about one fourth of the membership is fostering to rebellion against Brigham Young.

The Bismarck Tribune runs its politics on the European plan. People who use its columns for their benefit are expected to pay for what they get, at regular advertising rates.

A ranchman in the Prickly Pear has come to the conclusion that grasshoppers cannot be killed. He caught one the other day and held it under the water seven hours but it was frisky as ever when it came out.

Bismarck looks forward to a $25,000 hotel a National bank heavy investments in town property substantial improvements by the railroad company, and 10,000 population in five years. But now the town site difficulty dampens their ardor.

Two young ladies of Olympia, dressed in male togging cut a few shines around that town a few nights ago, but were terribly nonplussed when they happened to meet some gentleman who knew them. They are now trying to keep the matter still.

Work on the dwelling for the keeper of the Tatoosh light for which among other improvements, an appropriation was made at the last session of Congress is about to commence. The schooner Lotta will enter upon the business of transporting the material forthwith.

Several visits to the plains have been planned by members of the Board of Indian Commissioners. The Secretary contemplates a tour extending from the Indian Territory north to Montana and as far west as New Mexico and Arizona. He will notice and report upon the general condition of Indian tribes throughout the extended region indicated.

F S Osborne and Father Chirouse were riding in a buggy near Seattle last week. Crossing the Duwamish river on a bridge some of the planks started and frightened the horses which caused them to back off the bridge, and drag the vehicle down with them. Mr Osborne jumped out, but Rev Mr Chirouse was not able to do so, and in falling sustained several severe bruises from the effect of which he has been confined to his room ever since. The buggy was smashed to pieces in the fall, but the horses were not much hurt.

FREIGHTS ON WHEAT

PORTLAND, August 30, 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In behalf of the farming community I would like the privilege of pointing out what I deem to be a fault in the calculations of your commercial editor in the issue of last Saturday, in showing what the profits would be on a shipment of wheat to Liverpool.

He claims the freight to be £4 7s now from Portland to Liverpool. That is too high by far. It is true that many of these vessels have been chartered to arrive on speculation—on as high a rate as that given the charterers anticipating a much higher rate by the time of the vessels' arrival. But that was done some months ago. To-day you will notice that "spot" charters are made in San Francisco at £3 10s. and that freights are dull. How much more should vessels ask for freights in Portland when they have come here direct seeking? Certainly not more than £3 15s, or five shillings per ton extra. Computing freights at £3 15s instead of £4 7s, we will have a difference of eight cents per bushel to add to value of wheat making it 95 or 96 cents per bushel in Portland, including sacks after giving the exporter his profit. A freight of £3 15s from Portland to Liverpool is a remunerative one and will not drive vessels away nor deter them from coming here.

LOOKER-ON

A SAD CASE IN NEVADA—The Carson Tribune of the 26th says: The citizens of Dayton were yesterday noon horrified to hear of the drowning of the only son of P Ballenger. While the mother of the boy, a child of five years was at her housework, the little fellow by some means fell headforemost into a water barrel, which is sunk in the garden some 20 feet from the house. Looking out for her pet, the poor mother descried his feet sticking up out of the barrel. The child was taken out and Dr Hazlett sent for, but he arrived too late to save the child. He was quite dead, evidently smothered. It is a fearful stroke on the parents and has cast a gloom over the entire community."

THE BELLES OF NEW YORK AND BOSTON—A lady writer—it is only ladies who have the courage to do such things—have been comparing the New York and Boston belles at Saratoga. She says that the latter are not so pretty or sparkling as New York girls and lack that indefinite something which the French call chic and which we call "style," but many possess what is better, l'air du longue, and look fit for the wives of professors or presidents. Their dress is quiet black silk or black grenadine, but they wear more false hair have it more elaborately dressed, and display much more bustle and panier than the regular "society" girls.

TUESDAY MORNING SEPTEMBER 1 1874

BOTH PARTIES SACRIFICE OREGON AND THE TERRITORIES

The political conventions of the Atlantic States vie with each other in their opposition to further Government subsidies to railway enterprises It appears to be understood that is a subject upon which it is perfectly safe to make an unequivocal declaration and as it is about the only subject concerning which the same can be said the politicians of course make the most of it The masses of the people have become impatient under the corporation yoke and have got into the habit of speaking and voting their minds pretty freely and it is therefore assumed, naturally enough that loud talk against corporations will take well among the voters

For the greater part of the country there ought to be no more subsidies given The theory upon which aid is granted by the Government to this class of enterprises is that they are necessary to people the country and build up American communities and American civilization, to give prosperity to remote sections, to facilitate intercommunication among the people, and to cement the Union by bringing all parts of it into more intimate relations with each other When therefore any section of the country has natural facilities for communication, or has already been provided with artificial ones by the construction of trunk lines of railway there is reason in withholding such assistance from it. But when a community is situated remote from these lines of travel, as in the case of Oregon and, Washington and Idaho Territories and in a country possessing such resources as could not fail to make it in a short time populous and wealthy, if means were provided for its development then the case is very different True statesmanship is nothing more nor less than that correct comprehension of the present and that prudent and careful foresight for the future, which makes the Government an instrument for securing the greatest prosperity of the people Certainly then the condition of these remote and isolated communities appeals to the Government for relief, in the name of the highest statesmanship

And then, too, there is a claim of justice in the matter The common Treasury of the country has built the various roads, has opened various sections to settlement, and to this common Treasury the people of this northwest coast have contributed their share It is, therefore, but simple justice that our people should have some recognition of the claims which their isolated position suggests The party managers while they may be strengthening themselves at home are doing so at the sacrifice of this region

SALARIES VS. FEES

The system of compensating county officers for performing their duties, by means of fees to be collected for each service, has of late attracted criticism in other quarters than in Oregon The Republican State Convention of Pennsylvania unanimously resolved in favor of the enactment of a law substituting fixed salaries for the system of fees for this class of officers The plan of running the business of the clerks and sheriffs' offices upon a schedule of fees has been so generally pursued that the proposed change will be to some extent an experiment The question whether the duties appertaining to these administrative offices will be so well performed under a stated salary as under the fee bill plan, is worthy of consideration It is but acting out the promptings of ordinary human nature to serve the public better when compensation is in proportion to service than when the pay is the same be the work more or less But the same argument might, with almost equal propriety, be urged against salaries for any office, since the duties of all are capable of being made the basis of a scale of fees, whereas in practice, it is found that salaried officers are quite as efficient and accommodating as those who have fee bills On several accounts the salary plan is greatly preferable, though it would seem there should be some system of fees to be charged private suitors and others demanding special services, to be collected and turned over to the County Treasurer This plan would place the burden of paying for private services on the shoulders of those for whose special benefit the services may have been performed, and in some counties would actually reimburse the county for the payment of the salaries This is a matter that may come before the Legislature now about to convene, as all parties have committed themselves to it in some form, and it is by no means free from difficulty as any person will see, who attempts to follow it into its details It will demand the very best and most careful consideration from those who undertake the draughting of a law to meet the case

THIRD TERM DEVELOPMENTS

The Republicans of the Keystone State do not take kindly to the third term proposition Judging from their proceedings in their State Convention they are not particularly enthusiastic admirers of President Grant or else they are thoroughly imbued with the idea that no man can be good enough for a third term of the Presidency There were some third-term people in the Convention and they were not without hope of getting some favorable expression on the subject from the Convention but they were doomed to the bitterest disappointment The Convention opened fire upon them by a bold movement in favor of another man Here is a resolution they adopted

Resolved That entertaining the fullest confidence in the high personal integrity ability and statesmanship of Gov John F Hartranft we unhesitatingly present him to our Republican friends throughout the Union as a candidate for nomination to the Presidency in 1876 His blameless and exalted character as a man his extraordinary ability as an administrative officer the purity of his public life and his splendid record as a soldier all commend him to an enthusiastic and hearty support for a position which he is so well qualified to adorn

If this was cool, the next step was cruel The third termers felt after the adoption of this resolution that they could certainly make bold to ask for the mere crumb of a contingent endorsement of their candidate so they introduced modest resolution to the effect that in case President Grant should become a candidate for another term, the Republicans of Pennsylvania would be disposed to support him and even this mild conditional endorsement, says the regular report of the Convention, "was voted down with loud shouts of disapproval" Certes here is a bad start for a campaign that requires votes to make it successful especially when we consider that at the last Presidential election Pennsylvania gave Grant a much larger majority than any other State in the Union If Grant is wise—and we opine he is wise enough to see the wise course in this matter—he will not coquet with the ambitious prospect of a third term but will retire at the close of his present administration with the respect and esteem of the people of his country and never again hazard his reputation in the political arena

In England as in America the railways are troublesome as well as beneficial Complaints of the carelessness with which they are run imperiling the lives of passengers complaints of the high rates and irregular delivery of freights complaints of their want of a spirit of accommodation in the matter of locating depots complaints of their cruel and inhuman treatment of animals transported by them complaints of every kind come up from the people and are beginning to make themselves heard Recently the Pall Mall Gazette called attention to the subject editorially declaring that there must be some steps taken toward reform in respect to the points upon which complaints are most frequent And now there has been formed an organization whose object is to secure such reformation so far as relates to the safety of passengers and it is announced that the matter is to be pressed before Parliament

The time to discuss with most effect the merits of different aspirants for office is before they have received a nomination It is with this view that we publish the letter of our correspondent Wake Cautus The OREGONIAN has a large circulation in Washington Territory, and is as much depended upon by many of the people of that Territory, for their political news as if it were published there. We desire to have it understood however that the publication of this letter does not imply an endorsement of the views of the writer in reference to the claims of the different candidates alluded to as some of them are wholly unknown to us and of those we do know we know nothing but what is favorable Some of the allusions of the correspondent we do not understand but we take it for granted those who have carefully watched the politics of the Territory will understand them

A Milwaukie (Wis) grain house estimates that the amount of wheat shipped from that point this season will be from ten to fifteen millions bushels less than the shipment of last year

A correspondent of the Eugene City Guard "Clod Hopper" labors at considerable length to prove that he is better than a Chinaman He seems to have the affirmative all to himself

There is a county in Minnesota in which as is solemnly averred there is not a place of any kind where a drop of any intoxicating beverage can be obtained for love or money

THE BIBLE IN SCHOOLS —Cleveland has a sensation during this hot weather in the form of a discussion of the Bible in the schools question A Mr Smyth one of the members of the School Board is a Roman Catholic priest On Monday night he opposed an appropriation to an industrial school on the ground that it was a sectarian institution because the Bible was read in it The majority thought otherwise however and also voted to lay on the table a resolution prohibiting Bible reading and prayer in the schools These results were not attained without a spirited discussion and it is probable that more will be heard of the matter ere long —Cincinnati Gazette

CITY.

A BURGLAR NIPPED —A short time ago some light fingered person slipped aboard the Stark street ferryboat during the night, and, while the ferryman was on the other side of the river, went through the office. The burglar watching his opportunity, pried open the door of the office which was secured in a very frail manner Inside the office is a desk in which, during the day the coin that is taken in is placed temporarily It did not require the burglar long to get into the desk, when his labor was rewarded by the capture of about $5 —mostly in quarters and ten-cent pieces. Twice since then the office has been entered, and articles of trivial value stolen Mr Knott did not fancy this sort of proceedings, and procured a private watchman named John Collins, to keep a sharp look-out for his burglar. On Sunday night Collins went aboard ship the ferry and after ensconcing himself within the office locked the door He did not have to wait long for the development of events. About 1 o clock Collins heard some one operating on the office door Armed with a stout club he waited in silence. Soon the frail fastenings gave way and the thief stalked in. It was as dark as pitch, and the burglar [illegible] himself secure While he was tampering at the desk [illegible] Collins suddenly came down on him like a thunderbolt A vigorous blow on the head felled the burglar like an ox when he was instantly throttled by Collins, who gave the alarm Two policemen came down and marched the thief off to jail It proved to be an English sailor named William Forbes, who came here from China on the [illegible] On his person an old rusty pair of [illegible]—which he employed in opening the door—and several brass keys were found. [illegible] morning the case came up in the Police Court, Forbes was held to answer the charge of burglary before the grand jury in the sum of $1,000 In default he was committed to the county jail Forbes appearance answers the description of a man who has been in the habit of insulting little girls and ladies on the [illegible] for some time past

A TEAM IN JEOPARDY —A very exciting event transpired yesterday afternoon at the foot of Stark street in which the lives of two valuable horses came near being sacrificed. Mr Edward Long a well known farmer who [illegible] a few miles south of the city, [illegible] drive down the pontoon with a load When about two thirds of the way down the pontoon, his brake gave way, and the load [illegible] forward on the team, which were not able to hold up against the force. Mr Long did his best to rein the team to the left so as to direct them on the ferryboat, but was not able to do it. The animals seemed to lose all control over the wagon and were driven off the [illegible] of the pontoon into the river Fortunately the team got partially under the [illegible] of the ferryboat so that persons [illegible] the guards and by clinging to the bridles, could keep their heads above the water. [illegible] moment followed the accident, and in less time than it takes to tell, several hundred persons had assembled P[illegible] of [illegible] so valuable on such occasions did not fail [illegible] number, who went to work [illegible] the horses were detached [illegible] which was pulled back some distance up the pontoon and in a few minutes [illegible] were got safely ashore. [illegible] to say, no damage worthy of mention [illegible] to the wagon or the harness, and only one of the horses forelegs was skinned a little. It was a very narrow escape, and at one time there was no one in the crowd who would have given a dollar for the lives of the horses The [illegible] is a very valuable one, and the loss would have been severely felt by the owner, Mr Long.

CATHOLIC SOCIAL UNION —This evening there will be a meeting of the [illegible] of the Catholic Social Union held at the [illegible] of the Library Until further notice [illegible] of the Society will be held on T[illegible] of each week The object [illegible] accomplished by such [illegible] improvement and the cultivation of qualities The exercises will consist of essays recitations the discussion of topics, interspersed with music—vocal and instrumental—and social intercourse. [illegible] these meetings were conducted in a [illegible] creditable manner to all concerned, and the results were social and intellectual [illegible] The Society includes in its [illegible] large number of young ladies and [illegible] These meetings are not open to the public only members and invited guests being eligible to admission

JAIL BIRD CAPTURED —Eugene St. Clair, who, in company with a man named [illegible] broke jail about three weeks ago was [illegible] a few days since and brought down to Portland yesterday by the Sheriff of Yamhill county After getting out of jail, these worthies, it seems directed their footsteps toward the coast By some means it was [illegible] that St Clair was over about the mouth of Salmon river An officer was sent to that point, and succeeded in coming down on him unawares It was very certain that [illegible] was in that vicinity but the officer did not succeed in capturing him St Clair was brought over to Yamhill county and then conveyed to this city where he is safely confined in jail His case will be investigated by the next grand jury

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY —Complaint was entered at the Police headquarters yesterday by a man whose name we did not [illegible] against one Gatley for assault and also for robbery The complainant declares that on Sunday he called at the saloon kept by Gatley several miles from the city along the Canyon road to get a drink While there he became involved in an altercation with Gatley He states that Gatley seized hold of him by the throat knocked him down and then forcibly took away $5 from him in coin Shortly after complaint was made an officer was dispatched who went out and arrested Gatley who is now lodged in jail This morning the little transaction will be investigated in the Police Court

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

Eastern games for the championship—Aug 15th Philadelphia 11, Atlantic, 10 Owing to the absence of the Boston and Athletic Clubs, the ball season during the past month was quite dull

In England in the games of base ball up to Aug 15th between the Athletic and Boston Clubs, the former won five and lost seven games The total shows 147 for the Bostons and 141 for the Athletics.

The Arcadians returned from their triumphal tour yesterday They look better for the trip and we have not heard one of them complain of anything beyond a touch of seasickness which they encountered in the passage from Astoria to Cape Disappointment Their record shows three big victories, as follows Aug 27th with the Astoria Club 45 to 9 28th 37 to 15, with the White Stockings of Fort Stevens at Cape Disappointment, and 41 to 20 with the Hancock Club, of Cape Disappointment on the 29th Glenn and Burke, who were to complete the nine failed to put in an appearance and they played with only eight men in the three games who were stationed as follows Matthews c, Bird p, Hart, s s, Sutherland, (of the Pioneers, who went as Umpire) 1st b Al Raleigh 2d b McCraken 3d b, Cushing l f, Yates r f The boys are loud in praise of the ball players and the people generally at each place they visited

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Ankeny's Hall was appropriately decorated with flags of different nationalities banners evergreens, etc , last evening on the occasion of the third anniversary ball of the Portland Turn Verein The Germans who predominated, not only enjoyed themselves over their favorite beverages at tables ranged round the hall but they entered into the various dances with a vim that is proverbial with that class of citizens The tri colored insignia of the Society was to be seen on the persons of many and the ladies, who were largely represented appeared in tasty costumes No less than two hundred ladies and gentlemen were present, and all seemed to highly enjoy the affair We observed in the orchestra Messrs Bray, Parrott, Gans Sedlak Finck and Kay which is enough to satisfy those who were not there that the music was of the best Geo Parrish son of Prof Parrish assisted on the piccolo and showed a marked improvement At a seasonable hour Schneer Bros provided a bountiful supply of eatables which the assembly readily disposed of We can briefly say the Germans are social capable of making an affair complete, and the one last evening was fully up to the standard

In the absence of the President Hon H W Corbett B Goldsmith Esq called the Board to order

Minutes of the last regular meeting were read by the Secretary Wm Reid and approved

Mr Leonard stated that he was Chairman of the Committee to whom the resolution passed at the last meeting was referred The Committee was not ready to report at the present meeting but would submit a report at the next

Mr Laidlaw offered the following resolution which was adopted

Resolved That the Committee on Statistics be instructed to procure an abstract of foreign exports and shipping, showing the increase each year from 1870 down to the present time to be verified by the Board and that the Secretary in future keep a record of exports both foreign and coastwise from Oregon

Mr Macleay presented the following resolution, which was adopted

Resolved That the Committee on Navigation be instructed to procure United States marine and all other authentic reports and surveys of the Columbia river and bar and of the Willamette river, as far up as Portland and submit the same to the Board and that compilations thereof and extracts be made and printed and that the Secretary forward copies to the Chambers of Commerce of the large shipping ports of Europe and the United States and elsewhere

Mr Leonard offered the following resolution which was adopted

Resolved That for the purpose of ascertaining in what foreign countries Oregon may find direct markets for her agriculture salmon lumber and other products the Secretary be and is hereby instructed to communicate with the leading Chambers of Commerce in foreign countries, and solicit for this Board statistics detailing their port charges imports and exports, trade and commerce for the past few years

On motion of Mr Russell a select committee was appointed on the question, and Messrs Russell Schuyler and the Secretary were selected for the purpose

Mr Goldsmith presented the following which was adopted

Resolved That this Board recommends to the Governor and Legislature of the State the desirableness of passing this session an Immigration Bill embodying among other provisions First—A Board of Immigration for the protection and advice of emigrants arriving in Oregon Second—The appointment of an honorary State Commission without salary, in Great Britain, for emigration to Oregon, and setting forth the advantages the State offers to emigrants and to manufacturers and who would in other respects attend to the interests of the State abroad Third—That the State distribute abroad through its Commissioners and otherwise, authentic information showing the suitableness of Oregon as a field for emigration

Mr Russell offered the following resolution

Resolved That a Committee be appointed to consider the expediency and practicability of recommending that additional State aid be granted to assist in the construction of the P D & S L R R and to report the result of their inquiries to the next meeting Carried

Messrs Russell Leonard and Schuyler were appointed the Committee

Messrs Reid and Lord were appointed a Committee to canvass the city for members

On motion the Board adjourned until next Monday evening at 7 30 o clock

A UNIVERSAL CONFERENCE.—The following circular has been published in Europe On the 14th of September next and following days a conference composed of men belonging to different churches and desiring the great future union of Christians will meet at Bonn The purpose of this conference is to examine the formula of faith of the first centuries of the Church as also the doctrines and institutions which were held essential and indispensable to the universal Church of the East and the West before the great separation There is no question whatever of a union by absorption or fusion of the different Churches but of the establishment of an ecclesiastical communion on the basis of unity in things necessary with the maintenance of every Church's peculiarities which do not alter the substance of the ancient faith.

DECISION IN U S DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U S District Court—District of Oregon

In re The St Helens Mill Co In Bankruptcy

Objection to proof of debt with security

A corporation cannot execute a deed otherwise than under its seal

A lien by way of mortgage can only be created by a deed under seal.

An assignee represents the rights of the creditors and each of them as well as the bankrupt, and may therefore maintain or defend proceedings in regard to the property of the latter which on grounds of public policy or otherwise he would not be allowed to

A corporation cannot make a deed unless the directors or a majority of them meet together as a board and so determine and the only evidence of such meeting and action is the record required to be kept by the secretary

A stockholders' meeting has no authority to elect a President and Secretary of the corporation

Meeting of stockholders without notice is invalid

DEADY J —Saturday August 29 1874

On February 21 1874 the St Helens Mill Co a corporation duly organized under the laws of this State with a Board of five Directors and doing business at St Helens was duly adjudged a bankrupt and thereafter H S Allen was appointed assignee of its estate

On March 27, 1874 S A Miles made proof of a debt against the estate of the bankrupt of $3 711 28 arising upon the promissory note of the corporation made under its corporate seal to the order of said Miles on January 7 1873 for the sum of $3 241 39 payable one day after date with interest at the rate of one per centum per month with security —the security being as claimed a mortgage executed by said corporation upon certain lots in the town of St Helens

To this proof of debt with security the assignee made objection (1) That said pretended mortgage was not executed or acknowledged by the bankrupt and (2 that said pretended mortgage was not executed by the authority of said bankrupt

The answer to the objections is irrelevant and immaterial

The facts of the case as found by the Register are substantially as follows A few days after the making of the note—which was given in settlement of a previous indebtedness—the creditor asked the directors of the incorporation or some of them for security at the same time giving them to understand that if the debt was secured he would not sue upon it at the following April term of Court The result was that after some informal conference between the four persons then acting as directors of the corporation it was concluded between them that the security should be given, and thereupon an instrument purporting to be a mortgage by the St Helens Mill Company of certain lots in St Helens belonging to it was executed to the creditor, as follow In witness whereof the said party of the first part has hereunto set their hands and seals the day and year first above written

ST HELENS MILL CO
WM PICKERING Sec [L S]
JAMES DART Pres [L S]

Said Dart and Pickering being two of the directors aforesaid and acting President and Secretary of the corporation and on the same day said Dart and Pickering acknowledged said instrument to be their free act and deed before the County Clerk of Columbia county

At the date of signing this instrument and for some years previous, said corporation had a corporate seal and never had adopted or used any other seal upon that or any other occasion and that said corporate seal was not affixed to said instrument aforesaid, nor did said directors at any formal meeting ever consider or authorize the execution of said instrument or the giving of any security to said Miles whatever

The capital stock of said corporation consisted of 500 shares and at the annual meeting of stockholders for the election of directors thereof on January 6 1873 there was only 406 shares of said stock represented and no notice of said meeting was given

Upon this state of facts the question arises Is this instrument the deed of the corporation? for if it is not its deed it is not a mortgage, and is therefore no security for the debt in question It was an established principle of the common law that corporations aggregate could only act under their common seal 1 Black Com 475, Kinzie v Chicago 3 Illinois 108 In this country the rule has been much modified, but I know of no case which goes so far as to hold that a corporation can execute a deed otherwise than under its corporate seal The exceptions to the common law rule are confined to cases of simple contracts, or contracts not under seal A conveyance of real property by a corporation must be under its corporate seal Richardson v Scott R W & M Co 22 Cal 156

In Angell and Ames on Corporations, § 205 it is said "To bind a corporation by a specialty it is necessary that its corporate seal should be affixed to the instrument * * * The corporate seal is the only organ by which a body politic can oblige itself by deed and though its agents affix their private seals to a contract binding upon it yet these not being seals as regards the corporation it is in such case bound only by simple contract

In Tagle W M Co v Monteith 2 Or 285 the Supreme Court held that the deed of a corporation must be sealed with the corporate seal

Indeed, counsel for the creditor practically admits that this instrument is not the deed of the corporation and therefore not a legal mortgage but insists that it is an equitable one and therefore entitled to be recognized and enforced in a court of bankruptcy as a security in favor of a creditor

Where a deed or agreement of sale absolute upon its face was intended by the parties as a mortgage or security only, equity will treat it and give effect to it as such Such an instrument is sometimes called an equitable mortgage —because equity treats it as a mortgage 1 Wash R P 502 504 507

But in this case the instrument, which the Court is asked to treat as a mortgage is in no sense the deed of the bankrupt "It is not possible to create a lien by way of mortgage by any instrument which is not a deed under seal An instrument not thus executed, would not be a mortgage though it might be a contract for a mortgage" 1 Wash R P 504 But if it be admitted that this instrument as between the parties to it would be enforced in a Court of equity as an agreement for a mortgage still it does not follow that such effect can be given to it in this proceeding or in any proceeding between the parties now before the Court

An agreement to mortgage an estate as a security for a debt though regarded in some cases as an equitable mortgage can have no validity against third persons who acquire legal interests in or liens upon the property [illegible] Equity may in some instances reform an instrument but it cannot make one 1 Wash R P 11

Now since the date of this instrument the property mentioned therein has passed to the assignee Upon the assignment he took the property in trust for the creditors to apply the same upon their several claims as they then existed with or without security The assignee not only succeeds to the rights and liabilities of the bankrupt but he also represents the rights of the creditors and each of them and as such representative may maintain or defend proceedings in regard to the property of the bankrupt which on grounds of public policy or otherwise the latter would not be allowed to Carr v Hilton 2 Story 251 Bro[illegible] v Terril, 2 B R [illegible] In re Wynne 4 B R [illegible] Allen v Massey [illegible] 76

But this instrument is not even the act of the corporation and therefore equity would not treat it as an agreement for a mortgage Upon the facts it is plain that the corporation not only did not give the creditor a mortgage, but it never agreed to do so The corporation act provides that the powers vested in the corporation are exercised by the directors Or C [illegible] But to act the directors or a majority of them must meet together as a board and that the act together with their consideration must appear from the record of the official business of the corporation which [illegible] the corporation is required to be kept by the Secretary Gashwiler v Willis 33 Cal 16 The [illegible] 1 Sawyer 5[illegible] D A v [illegible] H & [illegible] Railway Co 2 Exch [illegible]

In this case there is no evidence tending to show that at any meeting of the directors it was resolved or voted that the creditor have a mortgage or security for his debt but the testimony of the directors who signed the instrument, affirmatively proves that they signed it [illegible] in pursuance of an informal understanding among a majority of the directors and that the subject never came before the directors as a board or was acted upon by them at any meeting of the same

Besides the directors who signed this instrument as President and Secretary were never duly chosen It appears from the record that the stockholders present at the annual meeting in 1873 after the election of directors proceeded to elect a President and Secretary of the corporation This was an unauthorized act and void A stockholders' meeting has no power to elect a President or Secretary The authority to do this is vested in the directors at the first meeting after their election and qualification Or Code 661 Gashwiler v Willis supra Indeed, the stockholders meeting at which these directors were elected was illegal, being held without notice and less than the whole amount of stock represented

The objections to the proof of debt with security are sustained at the costs of the creditor

William Strong for the creditor

Joseph Simon and John W Whalley for the assignee

SOME REDWOODS OF THE PACIFIC COAST

Great inroads have already been made in the forests of the Pacific Coast and at many points easily within easy sailing distance of San Francisco the available timber has been destroyed. There is however an immense belt yet extending from Russian River northward. Mills are located at every available point and at the present moment in Humboldt Bay the great lumber port of the redwood belt over the trees growing along the little creeks and sloughs running into the bay have been cut thus getting at the timber each year more expensive and difficult. The supply is however so extensive and the opportunities for opening new districts so great when the demand for lumber will justify increased expense that it is not probable our supply will diminish for many years. There are immense forests of redwood on both the Eel and Mad rivers in this section yet untouched. There is an immense belt also back of Trinidad. Then northward the redwood becomes scattered until we reach the vicinity of Crescent City. Back of this place and covering the low land once evidently overflowed by the sea between Pelican Bay on the north and Crescent Bay on the south is an exceedingly heavy body of this timber. It extends up the banks of the lower spurs of the Siskiyou mountain which here put down to the sea reaching to an elevation of about 1,000 feet above the sea. Many of the trees have a diameter at their base of thirteen to fifteen feet and the average run of saw-logs would be from six to eight feet.

This redwood belt abruptly ceases in the valley of Smith's river a few miles south of the Oregon boundary and from there northward it is unknown as a forest tree though a few clumps are found over the Oregon line. Although to a casual observer the redwood appears the same wherever grown yet there is a marked difference in the quality of that from different sections. Even in the same district some groves are valueless while others, not a mile distant yield clear lumber. The tree for instance that grows in low or swampy ground is apt, from excess of moisture to be swelled or hollow-butted, and to have more or less of rottenness and defect while that on the rising or rolling land and the slopes of the mountains will be solid and free from blemish. Again the timber cut from the lower end of the belt contains a greater percentage of refuse and less clear lumber than that from Humboldt, Trinidad, or Crescent City. There is a variety of the Sequoia sempervirens back of Crescent City that is quite peculiar. The tree is of the ordinary size and leaf of the common redwood but the wood itself is white and remarkably free from knots and imperfections.

Where the redwood grow in swamps and other moist places, there sometimes forms on its outside a remarkable excrescence called "redwood fungus." This appears in the shape of a huge knot or wart on the tree. It is a growth of the bark not having any distinct grain. When cut into slabs this knot shows a mottled and deep-red color, filled with little "bird's eyes," remarkably beautiful, and bearing a high polish. When cut into veneers, it is used for panel work on billiard tables, etc. and commands a good price. In the northern redwoods one frequently sees bunches of fern and trailing plants growing on these knots the fallen leaves lodging on the protuberance having in time created a soil. These little air-gardens are very pretty.—Overland Monthly for September.

ORIGIN OF METALLIFEROUS DEPOSITS

The address by Prof. T. Sterry Hunt, published in the "Transactions of the American Institute of Mining Engineers" gives a clear and interesting account of the process by which metalliferous deposits have been formed. The agencies which he chiefly adduces are the universal solvent power of water aided in some cases by heat pressure and the presence of certain widely distributed substances such as carbonic acid alkaline carbonates, and alkaline sulphides, the assimilating power of vegetable and animal organisms, and the reactions between organic matter and mineral oxides or their salts. Dr Hunt says he can hardly conceive of an accumulation of iron copper lead silver or gold in the production of which animal or vegetable life would not directly or indirectly be necessary. He explains his meaning by taking iron as an illustration and showing how the iron, widely diffused in minute proportions in soils, growing plants etc., is dissolved as protoxide in water impregnated with carbonic acids or other feeble acids (swamp water for instance) and when exposed to the air absorbs oxygen and is precipitated as insoluble peroxide. Rocks and soils containing the insoluble peroxide are still attacked by waters containing organic matter the latter reducing the peroxide of iron to soluble protoxide and being itself in part oxidized and converted into carbonic acid in the process. The coal regions furnish interesting evidences of this process. The soil in which the coal plants grew has been deprived of its iron and hence is prized as fire clay. Interstratified with the coal and the clay we often find the separated metal itself in the form of iron stone. The reaction between peroxide of iron and organic matter, by which the first is reduced and the latter oxidized is illustrated by the destructive action of rusty iron fastenings on moist wood and the effect of the iron stains in impairing the strength of the linen fiber.

With regard to the great beds of iron ore found in the ancient crystalline rocks where no direct evidences of organic life are observed Dr Hunt assumes that the organic matter was in most cases entirely consumed in producing these great results and that it was a large proportion of iron diffused in these ancient soils and waters, which not only furnished material for such great beds of ore, but also oxidized and destroyed the organic matters which in later ages appear as coals, lignites, bitumens and bituminous rock. The old crystalline rocks, however do contain some carbon in the form of graphite and many geologists hold this to be a metamorphosed form of organic materials.

Copper lead and silver are not precipitated like iron by oxygen but their soluble compounds are precipitated from water sometimes as metals, but more frequently as sulphides by certain reducing agents. The ocean contains copper silver and lead, and traces of all these metals are found in the ashes of the sea weed while copper is met with in more notable quantities in the blood of many marine mollusks as indeed, also in the blood of man and the higher animals. By absorption into vegetable growths the soluble metallic salts are brought into the forms from which their decay generates insoluble sulphides or the presence of decaying organic matter may precipitate sulphides from sulphate solutions. The same agent under certain conditions precipitates native metals from solutions of their salts. Thus in one somewhat celebrated instance an English chemist found that a mouse had fallen into a jar containing a solution of sulphate of iron and that the skeleton of the mouse, when discovered after a lapse of several months was incrusted with shining iron pyrites. These analogies indicate what have been the general processes of solution concentration and precipitation, which have gathered together in limited spaces for the use of man metallic compounds which would otherwise be disseminated through the earth's crust in proportions too minute for profitable extraction.

Reactions which have taken place in deep seated fissures forming what are called mineral lodes are complicated and obscure involving the activity of subterranean heat vapors thermal waters, etc. But geologists and chemists are coming more and more to the belief that the principles governing the formation of mineral lodes in past eras are the same as we observe at work to-day upon the earth's surface.

JOE BOGY'S RECEPTION.

It appears when Mr Bogy was elected to the senatorial chair his son—Col Joe Bogy was rather more elated than his father and with a natural pride in the paternal success alluded to it on all occasions. He spoke of his father frequently as the successor of Mr Benton and himself as the son of his father.

One night after a discourse of this nature a crony, a sleepy sort of a chap remarked that he had been the victim of a peculiar dream a few nights previous, and, on being pressed related it.

"I dreamed," said he, "I dreamed I died and went to heaven and when the angel at the gate asked me who I was I told him. He pointed to a place, and told me to wait there that my turn for examination would come in a few hundred years. While I was waiting I saw Joe coming. Said the angel 'Who are you?'

'Don't you know me?' says Joe. 'I'm Col Joe Bogy, son of Senator Bogy, of Missouri, the successor of Mr Benton. Don't you know me?'

'Certainly, Colonel Bogy,' said the angel, 'come in, we've been expecting you. Walk right up.'

So Joe walked up to the throne and the Almighty looked at him. 'Who are you?' he asked.

'Indeed,' responded the Lord, 'I am glad to see him.' Chair [illegible]"

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 10s 1d @ 10s 10d for average California at 11s 10d @ 12s for club.

The outlook as far as money matters in our local market are concerned is not at all discouraging if taken into consideration as to the supply of available funds but the chief ground of complaint is the stagnation in trade circles, especially the slowness with which cargoes for the vessels now in port can be purchased. The movement in grain circles as yet has no volume of importance though occasional transactions in small lots are noticed. The opening of this department of trade is looked for with anxiety by others than those who buy and sell wheat as it will set afloat a large amount of capital which now lies idle and be a corresponding advantage to all branches of commerce.

Our neighbors in California are very much situated as we are in Oregon though the harvest there being so much earlier, the complaint is of longer standing. The Grangers there so far during the season have shipped the principal part of the wheat that has been sent off receiving a cash advance of 1¼ per cent on their exportations from the parties who do their business. Money is abundant foreign and eastern indebtedness is small while the domestic resources are steadily increasing. The plain logic of the situation is that money must inevitably become cheaper, and when that occurs we shall witness the commencement of a material growth and progress much beyond anything we have yet experienced. In the meantime capitalists hold for high rates with wondrous tenacity and seem determined to die in the last ditch rather than yield an iota. Notwithstanding the fact that money is, and has been plethoric in this market rates have been generally maintained at 1 per cent. per month in commercial banks and 8@9 per cent a year in the savings societies. Instances have however, occurred where as low as 5 and 6 per cent have been taken for large amounts, subject to call.

European Grain Markets.

A Circular dated London England, August 7th issued by George Dornbusch has been placed on our table. It contains full reports of the grain arrivals and sales during the preceding week at the principal ports of England and the Continent, together with latest news of the state of the crops in those countries. In cargoes of spring wheat on passage and for shipments there was nothing doing. California was steady prompt shipment, sellers 50s per quarter. Shipments, all 1874 sellers 50s per qr of 500 lbs. Cal terms, sellers 48s 6d for Liverpool direct. Off Oregon cargo of 4,500 qrs, Cal terms, for orders. December shipment is quoted at 51s.

Returns were at hand from 6 markets of these 2 were firm unaltered or steady—1 dull and quiet—0 came cheaper and 5 report a slight advance.

The quantity of new grain marketed had been very small and has not had any appreciable effect on farmers deliveries which are nearly 12,000 qrs below the average of the last 7 years at this season. Whilst the average price is 5 s being within 1 1 of this time last year.

Imports had increased and amounted during the week to nearly 3 1,000 qrs. The quantity exported was unimportant not exceeding 1 300 qrs.

The Paris market for wheat by cargo it is was quoted as follows: For August deliveries per kilo of 150 lbs 50s September delivery 49s 7d November 45s 3d. The flour market quoted at 5s 1d for Aug delivery per kilo 250 lbs September 40s 6d and December delivery 38s 4d@38s 6d.

In the circular which is quite elaborate we find no mention made especially of club wheat or price therefor.

Grain and Provision Report

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business Monday August 10th contained 2 71,013 bushels of grain embracing 929,691 bushels of wheat 1 56 567 bushels of corn 172,399 bushels of oats 24,352 bushels of rye and 21,010 bushels of barley against 2,177,223 bushels one week ago and 2 4 0 120 bushels at this period last year.

Milwaukee warehouses, at the close of business on Saturday August 1 th contained 1 1 58 bushels of wheat 503 bushels of No 1 oats 5 99 bushels of No 2 oats 3 641 bushels of No 2 corn 362 bushels of No 1 rye.

The stock of grain in Buffalo on the 20th was 30, bushels of wheat 1,000 bushels of corn and 40,000 bushels of oats.

The amount of grain on the Erie Canal on the 17th was 516 2 2 bushels of wheat 1 51 000.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada August 8th was Wheat 6,901 82 bushels corn 7,000,865 bushels oats 1 015 0 5 bushels barley 2 604 bushels.

The exports of breadstuffs and provisions from the ports of Portland New York Philadelphia Baltimore Boston and New Orleans for the week ending August 15th were flour 87,743 barrels wheat 949,000 bushels corn 561,000 bushels pork 3,095 barrels bacon 4 665,000 pounds lard 2 9 000 pounds.

Shipping Intelligence

The bark Nabob hence for Queenstown crossed the bar at the mouth of the Columbia on the 10th of March last. On the 24th day of May she is reported to have been spoken in S lat 46° E long 15° She had a cargo of 7,510 centals wheat and 4,998 bbls flour valued at $41 278.

The steamship John L. Stephens from San Francisco will be due to-morrow night.

The California hence for Sitka and way ports will sail at 6 P M to-morrow.

The barks Mattie Macleay and Jane A. Falkinburg are up for Honolulu and will have quick dispatch.

The bark Achievement hence for Liverpool put into the harbor of San Francisco, August 4th in distress and is there now undergoing repairs. She left here July 9th.

The British bark Sarah Scott sailed from Yokohama July 24th for this port.

The British bark St Patrick left Valparaiso for Portland July 25th.

SAN FRANCISCO August 31—Arrived, Ajax from Portland, Uranus, Kedric, Adelaide Cooper, Port Ludlow, Lovet Peacock, Seattle, Tidal Wave, Port Madison, Wm Tabor, Victoria.

Sailed—Fremont, Port Blakely, Coquimbo, Port Madison.

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—A very insignificant amount compared with what is required to fill the vessels now ready to receive cargoes has come to hand and yet exporters do not seem to be pressing the market at all. Their ships are quietly awaiting a turn in affairs when the rush of harvest is over and more than three and a half million bushels of wheat will be held to load the vessels that favor our port with their presence. At this time quotations are almost nominal the latest telegrams from abroad having depressed an already dull market. The exporters we learn are $1 40@1 45 ⅌ cental.

FLOUR—A few lots the product of the new crop of wheat have come to hand but not in sufficient quantities to make any impression on the market. The shipments during this month have been smaller than usual and still the stocks on hand here are not large though ample to supply the local demand. Choice extras command $5 @5 5 ⅌ barrel, good country brands, $5 and superfine $4 [illegible].

OATS—A few lots of the new crop have been received here and have found readier sale. The stocks of last year's yield are getting small and prices have experienced a slight advance. Quotations are furnished at 45@50c ⅌ bushel in sacks the latter for choice bright lots.

BARLEY—Transactions have been limited for some days past and brewers offer $1 1 ⅌ cental for best common for feed quotable at $1 @$1 10.

FEED—We note no change in the market in this article the stocks being comparatively light but fairly supplying the local demand which is about the only requirement.

HAY—We note the receipt of several large lots which find sale at $10 ⅌ ton for baled timothy $9@10 for loose $7 for wild.

POTATOES—There is no lack in the supply or varieties. Prices range from 40 to 45c ⅌ bushel.

ONIONS—The receipts have materially increased and prices are tending downward. Common lots being now quotable at $1 25@1 50 ⅌ 100 lbs and choice $1 50@1 75.

BACON—Hams and shoulders though not so plentiful as sometime ago are yet readily obtainable but sides are very scarce and firm at quotations. For good country cured we quote hams 14@16c ⅌ lb shoulders 9@10c and sides 11½@12c.

LARD—The demand for a good article of fresh is fair at 14½@16c ⅌ lb in kegs or tins.

DRIED FRUIT—The demand for apples is dull and prices have gone down to 4½c ⅌ lb in sacks and 5@6c in kegs. Plums are unchanged.

RIPE FRUITS—The supply is large and quotations must take a wide range. Best apples in boxes $1@1 25 ⅌ box peaches 75@1 00 pears 75c@$1 plums 50c@$1 ⅌ box. Apples loose from wagons 50c@75c ⅌ box.

BUTTER—The current receipts are lessening in volume and prices are gradually advancing. This product has been sold here this season in less quantities than formerly but the average quality has been better. The quotations however have fallen [illegible] at 25@27½c [illegible] choice dairy 27@30c [illegible].

CHEESE—The supply is good and trade fair. [illegible] prices firm at our last quotations.

EGGS—During most of the past week prices have been maintained. Sales from store at 30c per dozen but at present there is a weakening tendency in the market and a decline [illegible] may be looked for by the time this reaches the reader.

CHICKENS—The supply is not at all excessive and all offering are freely taken at [illegible] for spring and [illegible] grown hens.

FRESH MEATS—There is nothing new to note. The market is well supplied at the usual rates which depend very much on the condition of stock offered and wants of the purchaser. Choice beef cattle on foot [illegible] mutton sheep $2 [illegible] dressed [illegible].

HIDES—Prices for the past week have been higher than quoted but without any important change in rates.

WOOL—We are now between seasons in this staple and but few lots are changing hands. The Ajax will carry a few bales to San Francisco sailing this evening and this will be nearly the last shipment of the spring clip. Prices are firm at our last given figures.

Bob Douglas hostler for the Northwestern Stage Company at Rattlesnake Station shot and killed an employe of the telegraph company at that place on Thursday morning last. We have received no particulars further than that the two men had a quarrel which ended in Douglas shooting the other man with a double barrelled shotgun. Rattlesnake where the tragedy took place, is in Baker county, 25 miles from the Owyhee Ferry.

On August 23d, while Michael McBride was driving over a bridge on Mill Creek in Umatilla county with a load of wood and had nearly reached the opposite bank in safety, one of the stringers gave way, precipitating wagon and team, together with Mr McBride and his little son Edgar—a lad of about eleven years—a distance of eight feet into the creek. Mr McBride although severely hurt as soon as he could extricate himself from the position in which he had fallen went immediately to the relief of his son, whom he found in an insensible state and bleeding profusely. As soon as the nature of the case would admit, medical assistance was sent for, but ere any relief could be obtained the poor boy expired, having never recovered his consciousness from the moment of the catastrophe.
